13 cent tax boost possible

Supervisors vote on $329 million budget

Alameda County Bureau
Will Alameda County taxpayers have to absorb a 13 cent tax rate increase or will the county be able to hold the line on expenditures?

That crucial question will be answered today as the Board of Supervisors will vote on the proposed $329 million budget, which includes a 13 cent tax increase.

The long, long day for the supervisors will begin at 9 a.m. with a work session on the budget similar to the three they have held in the past two weeks.

The supervisors fully expect to return to their chambers in the County Administration Building at 2:30 p.m. to continue wrestling with what Supervisor

Joseph Bort calls "the tightest budget I've ever seen".

Public testimony on the budget will be taken and if the pattern of the previous meetings is followed, most of those speaking will urge the supervisors to save, not spend, and keep the tax rate where it is.

County Administrator Loren Enoch drew up the preliminary budget and tried to keep services and personnel at last year's level. He warned that three factors — unemployment, inflation, and cutbacks in state and federal funds — have caused the tight budget.

"The board is going to have to make some difficult decisions" he said.

Some of the difficult decisions will have to be made in the Welfare Department, which made its plea to the supervisors on Tuesday.

To continue all programs at their present level, department officials say they will need $562,000. Otherwise, they will be forced to cut that amount from their budget and thus lower services in some areas.

William Davis of the Welfare Department gave the supervisors four alternatives to realize the deficit by cuts in various areas but none were popular with those who had to absorb the cuts.

In the morning session Tuesday, three judges and the Court Administrator appeared to ask for more funds in various areas. Superior Court Judges Lionel Wilson and Spurgeon Avakian spoke to the board about the need for a calendar coordinator for criminal cases and Marie Collins of the Oakland Municipal Court made a lengthy plea for more marshalls in her court.

Al Hederman of the district attorney's office requested more funds in four areas, including $53,373 to police the Political Reform Act (Proposition 9).

Hederman stated that there are 694 elected officials (plus campaign committees and losing candidates) that must abide by the provisions of the new law and enforcing it will take money and time.

The Probation Department made its plea for three programs that will run over $500,000 in county costs Tuesday morning as well.

The final decision on the expenditures in all departments — not to mention the expenditures of the taxpayers that support them — will be made at today's session.

Mori angry

Budget vote blasted

SACRAMENTO - Assemblyman Floyd Mori blasted a bi-partisan Assembly coalition Wednesday which rejected the compromise $11.6 billion state budget.

Expressing "disappointment" in the opponents of the budget, Mori said, "Their comments reflect an ignoring of economic realities and a set of priorities developed in terms of political expediency."

The Assembly rejected the budget, which is $120 million more than Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. had sought, on a surprising 49-20 vote following approval by the State Senate.

The Assembly vote, five short of the required two-thirds majority, came because Republicans felt the budget was "bloated" and five liberal Democrats refused to vote because they did not believe the spending plan provides enough for disadvantaged Californians.

Mori said, "It is this penny-pinching, pound-foolish attitude that has caused the state's budget to more than double in the past eight years. We are paying today for these false economies of the past," he added.

Referring to the Republicans who remain opposed to the budget fail to recognize the basic economic problem of scarcity," Mori conceded "there is not enough in the budget to meet the needs of all who are deprived." But, he added, "any augmentation would still not be enough to meet all human needs."

Mori said, "The few Democrats who remain opposed to the budget fail to recognize the basic economic problem of scarcity," Mori conceded "there is not enough in the budget to meet the needs of all who are deprived." But, he added, "any augmentation would still not be enough to meet all human needs."

Because the state's resources are limited, Mori said, "We must draw a line...The conference committee's proposed budget is not totally satisfactory," he added, "but I do feel it is a reasonable compromise and does as much for human needs as is possible with the limited revenue prospects."

A two year effort

Valley okays BART study

PLEASANTON - The $500,000, two-year BART valley extension study wound towards a close Tuesday night when the Livermore-Pleasanton BART Extension Board approved it by a 6-0 vote.

The final report will now be printed and will be submitted to the Metropolitan Transportation Commission and the federal government for review.

The only major change approved by board members Tuesday was deletion of a specific site recommendation for a Castro Valley station.

Nearly 50 Castro Valley residents crowded Tuesday's session to protest the recommended station location and urge the board to look at alternatives.

That proposed station, which would force relocation of more than 70 families, would have been located directly north of Interstate 580 between Lake Chabot Road and Chestnut Street.

Board members sympathized with the Castro Valley residents but stopped short of forever prohibiting that station location. Their motion, which was approved unanimously, states that further study is needed to determine if a station should be located in Castro Valley and, if so, where that station should be. The final report will not include a specific Castro Valley station site.

The board also directed staff to initiate discussion with the California Department of Transportation to insure adequate design for a BART median is included in the reconstructed I-580.

The extension study analyzes both a rail link and bus service to the valley. The final decision on whether a rail link will be provided and where that extension will be placed in Bay Area transit priorities will be made by the MTC and BART board sometime this fall.

Deputy not sympathetic

'Vandalism a challenge'

DUBLIN - The kids who vandalize businesses, residences and recreational facilities "don't think about the damage or hurt to someone," Alameda County Deputy Sheriff Capt. Dennis Jeffery told Wednesday's Dublin Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

"It's a challenge. It's exciting. There's a little bit of danger in it, and they're bored."

His remarks, however, were anything but sympathetic toward juvenile vandals, their parents or a community that would spawn and, through apathy, tolerate expensive "malicious mischief."

"Most kids involved aren't bad kids," he said, adding later, however, that by the time they reach the courts, "we've taught them they can get away with it. That crime does pay."

First time offenders, those with no prior arrests on the charges, initially are warned and their parents notified.

The second time around it's a citation with a notice to appear in court.

The third time it's

"booking" at the San Leandro juvenile hall.

If the trouble starts in school the kid has gone through his teacher, school administrator, parents, police, probation officer and finally winds up in the courts.

They start with the same offenses: rocks through windows, broken radio antennas, paint sprayed on rows of cars, petty theft from the local drug or candy store.

"Please," he said, "let us know when you've been vandalized or when your suspicions are aroused. We don't mind coming out because you're holding a kid who tried to steal a candy bar."

The sooner they're stopped, the better chance there is of cutting short their future.

Juveniles can be held physically, he continued, adding people worry too much about simple liability.

"We (the sheriff's department) are sued all the time if it's less than $1 million, we just don't worry about it. Complaints against police are just a sign of the times," he added, noting recent allegations against the Federal Bureau of Investigation for alleged violation of civil liberties.

"If what you're doing (in holding the youth) is reasonable, don't worry about it."

If there are too many kids, grab one and hold him, he said. Unless he's "hardened" he'll give away the others.

If they're too fast, get a description and notify the police immediately.

Vandalism of more than $200 is now a felony and parents are responsible.

The problem in Dublin is less than it is "over the hill," he said, offering as partial explanation the fact that "kids walking around Dublin don't feel as anonymous as kids walking around San Leandro, Castro Valley or Hayward." People in Dublin feel more involved. They know each other.

Kids need something worthwhile to do, "something with a challenge," he continued.

"Give them something they've got to obtain, something to work toward. Make them work to appreciate it," he said, offering a theme of the traditional Protestant Work Ethic.

Right now "we give them something. We build a park or a rec-center and say, 'Here, use it.' Kids in soccer or little league have to work to get on a team."

"Maybe we ought to have a class at the high schools to teach kids about their community. They think roads are just there; they get paved. You turn on a faucet and water comes out. They've got to be taught to appreciate what goes into a community."

No parking zones

Fairgrounds towaway set

PLEASANTON - No parking and tow away zones in the vicinity of the County Fairgrounds have been established by the Pleasanton Police Department and will be in effect as of 8 a.m. June 29 and throughout this year's fair.

The "No Parking-Tow Away" signs are erected due to the heavy pedestrian and vehicle traffic in the area of the Fairgrounds during the fair's annual two week run.

Police advise local residents to avoid using the Bernal Avenue route to leave or enter the city during Fair-time due to the numerous traffic problems they might encounter.

The no parking-tow away zones will include both sides and the total length of the following streets: Pleasanton Avenue, Bernal Avenue, Harrison Street and Augustine Street.

No parking-tow away signs will also be erected on the following streets: West Angela, both sides from Pleasanton Avenue to Main Street; West Division Street, both sides from Pleasanton Ave. to railroad tracks, West Division, both sides one-way street; Division Street, intersection of St. Marys to bridge; Rose Avenue, south side from Pleasanton Avenue to Fair Street and both sides from Fair Street to back gate; Fair Street, both sides, total length of street; Rose Avenue, both sides from Pleasanton Ave. to Western Pacific tracks; Western Pacific right-of-way (replacement), both sides from St. John to Bernal.

While on the subject of parking areas, the Pleasanton Jaycees will again operate a parking lot at the intersection of Pleasanton Avenue and Bernal Avenue from June 29 to July 13. The lot is near the main entrance to the Fairgrounds.

Proceeds derived from the parking lot will be used by the Jaycees for the promotion of community-oriented projects and related activities.

In past years, the Jaycees have been involved in such functions as Pleasanton Youth, Inc., sports programs for young people, fire prevention campaigns, construction of "tot lots," as well as many man hours for other civic ventures.

Disposal plan to ABAG tonight

BERKELEY - The Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) takes up the problem of solid waste disposal today, amidst indications that the "Delta Plan" will gain prominence as chances for the Amador Valley landfill scheme diminish.

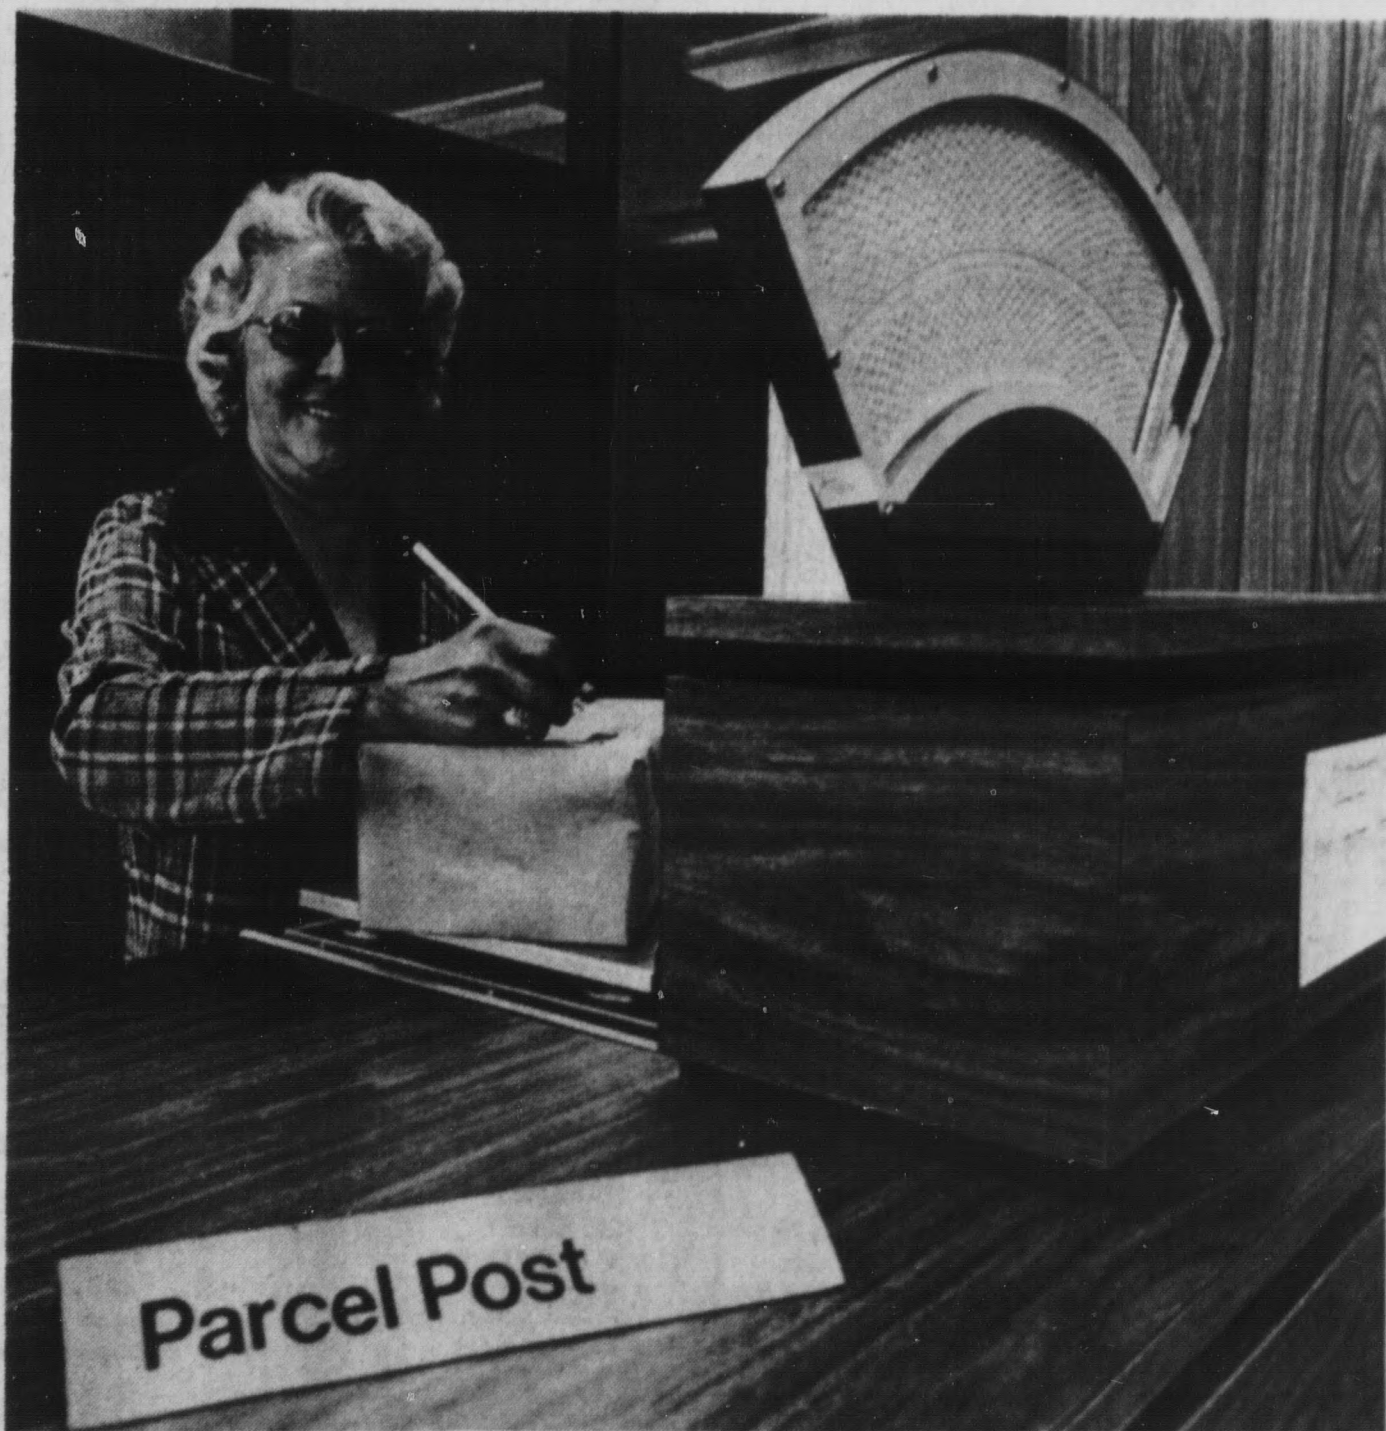

Legislation authored by Assemblyman Floyd Mori (D-Pleasanton) would virtually remove the possibility of converting depleted gravel pits on the valley floor to huge garbage dumps. That bill needs only concurrence from the State Senate to become law.

As these landfill proposals close by established urban areas become less likely, the earlier plan for reclaiming vast tracts of Delta land with recycled garbage appears more promising. It is that Delta reclamation plan which ABAG will take up once again at its Thursday night session, 7:30 p.m. at the Claremont Hotel. The first obstacle facing that proposal is the resistance of Governor Jerry Brown, who "wants to develop a comprehensive solid waste plan for the Bay Area," it is reported.

Also on tonight's ABAG agenda will be a regional housing plan, and review of environmental assessment procedures.

Pick your fair ticket plan

PLEASANTON - Three special ticket plans will be in vogue for Pleasanton Day at the Fair, scheduled Wednesday, July 9.

The $4.50 ticket provides admission to the Fairgrounds and the chicken barbecue with all the trimmings.

For youngsters under 12, a $3 ticket will be good for the chicken dinner with all the trimmings.

barbecue. Inasmuch as July 9 is also Kids Day, no admission will be charged for them. Bar drinks will cost $1, beer 75 cents, and soft drinks 35 cents.

The barbecue will once again be held in the large picnic area adjacent to the Fair administration offices. Dinner will be served on the 9th from 7 to 9 p.m.

Swing your partners, do-si-do

The Valley Travelers Squaredance group, whose activities range from their thrice-monthly dancing through progressive dinners, camping trips and bar-be-cues, have moved their summer meeting place to the Recreation Center, Eighth and H Streets, Livermore, where they'll meet every first, second and fourth Thursday. The group, which loves spectators and offers two sessions

Arroyo Mocho is honored

LIVERMORE - Arroyo Mocho Elementary School was listed in a recent publication by the State Department of Education as "exemplary in providing experiences appropriate to the diagnosed needs of five-year-olds."

The designation means that Arroyo Mocho is a recommended school for educators from all over the state to visit if they are interested in improving their own programs for testing and planning for kindergartners.

Registration for summer school open

Students wishing to take summer classes may still register for the Amador Valley Joint High School District session which got underway Wednesday.

Summer school principal Tom Himmelberg said 750 had enrolled as of opening day. Classes are being held at Amador Valley High this summer. Students can enroll by coming to the main office at Amador today or Friday.

Among the classes with openings are those in ceramics, arts and crafts, U.S. History, English and physical education.

Summer school continues through July 30 with classes running from 7:35 a.m. to 12 noon. For further information, call 846-2818.

"Our morale has been given a real boost. The teachers, as well as parents, have worked hard and deserve this recognition by the State Department of Education," Teel commented.

"To be selected in this manner confirms our belief that we have conducted a strong program and we are doing a good job," he said.

The state listing is not related to the evaluation by the Early Childhood Education (ECE) team, which concentrated on the written application and reports and did not place emphasis on the actual program in operation.

Dumping is a crime

PLEASANTON - Indiscriminate dumping of trash in vacant lots is not only unattractive, it is a crime.

Persons found dumping trash can be fined up to $500 and can also be put in jail for up to six months, Fire Captain Doug Cracraft and Fire Inspector Ted Klenk report.

The two recently made a survey of vacant lots in the city and found trash ranging from garbage and grass to clipping debris and household articles.

The police department has been alerted to cite offenders.

Owners of vacant lots are also reminded that, if a fire breaks out on their property and damages neighboring property, they are liable for damages. It is against the law to maintain a fire hazard, the officials said.

Citizens with questions regarding fire hazards are urged to call the Department of Public Safety, special services office, at 846-3202, extension 275.

Cracraft and Klenk remind Pleasantonites, "It is everyone's responsibility to think fire safety."

Dublin boy enters sketches

By REINA WHITNEY

Among the many excited exhibitors in county fair competition this year will be Marty Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Sherman of Dublin. Marty, a junior at Dublin High School is 17 years of age.

Marty is also mentally retarded. Entering the special category for Mentally Retarded and Blindcraft, his exhibit is the product of a manual arts class at Dublin High, and shows a complicated pen and ink sketch of a typewriter, tape-recorder, radio and calculator — mounted on a mat.

Marty can work patiently and meticulously, a talent not inherent in all retarded persons. He not only likes to work on broken electronic machines, but loves to sketch them as well. His teachers, Don Miner and Barbara Swartsenberger, were so impressed with his artwork that they sent it to the Special People's Art Show in Sacramento where it received an award.

Because of the devotion of his parents, Marty has always been cared for at home, near the security of his family of four sisters and a brother near his age. Marty has never attended anything but a public school, fortunate that the Murray School District has an excellent special education program at the Well's Elementary School.

More often than not, organic, neurological and muscular disturbances of bility to defend himself. Although big in stature, he's no competition for the harassment of children half his age who don't realize how much their taunts can hurt a sensitive mind that cannot understand their unkindness.

He has been able to withstand his inadequacies only through the constant support of the members of his family who try to provide a near-normal atmosphere at home.

In summer it's camping with the family, fishing with his Dad, or visiting relatives and helping with his share of chores. Marty even maintains a paper route.

He has a special love for all animals and hopes to participate in a special 4-H program planned for the mentally retarded.

The Shermans are one of the first families to move into Dublin, so Marty has grown up among sympathetic and patient neighbors who are aware of his limited capacities. This year they'll all be cheering for him as they view his outstanding exhibit and share his well-deserved pride.

A loving family cheers him on and shares his pride.

ten accompany mental deficiencies, and this imbalance has to be cared for constantly. Children's Hospital in Oakland is like a second home to Marty who has already had eight operations.

But perhaps his greatest suffering is not always physical. Other children can be cruel, and many times they have taken advantage of Marty's in-

Marty Sherman submits his fair entry entitled 'Marty's Machines' to Shawn Kenny and Virginia Woelffer.

THE VONKONSKY DANCERS

Authentic folk dances will enliven Sommerfest '75

The arrival of the lusty summer months has been celebrated for centuries throughout Europe with the lively maypole dance.

How fitting that a 400-year-old maypole dance from Austria will be a special attraction at Livermore's Sommerfest, of "summer festival" celebrated Saturday at The Barn.

The version of the traditional dance to be performed by the VonKonsky Dancers at Sommerfest features a highly unique and complex "nest" form. In an authentic rendition of the "Geisberger Banditanz" (Pole Dance of Geisberger, Austria) the dancers weave the maypole ribbons into an intricate diamond pattern.

Millie VonKonsky of Dublin who directs the semi-professional dance troupe says the group has been concentrating on folk dances of Austria and Bavaria for several years. Costumed in imported lederhosen, or leather pants, and authentically-reproduced dirndls, the dancers will be a worthy accompaniment to Joe Smiell's Bavarian Band at the Sommerfest.

(Joe Smiell's Bavarian Band is one of the best of its kind in the United States. Joe has directed Oktoberfest USA at the Pleasanton fairgrounds for many years.)

"The costumes worn by folk dancers can tell you a lot about the lifestyles of the native people," Millie VonKonsky believes. Is there any truth to the rumor that the separated socks worn by the men (see picture at left) reflect German frugality?

The highly entertaining and difficult "schuplattler," or shoe slapping, is typical of dances from Austria and Bavaria where the mountain people had the time to develop complex steps and practice them. Such slapping movements are not found in dances of the lowland people.

"The schuplattler was the way a man could impress a lady," Millie explains. "Women were never allowed to participate." To the credit of many hours practice, the VonKonsky Dancers will feature the shoe slapping in all but one of their numbers.

A "first" at Sommerfest will be the performance of a complex figure dance newly-mastered by the dance troupe. The dance for two couples will duplicate a folk dance performed by the "Tiroler Abend" dancers of Innsbruck, Austria, who were seen in the film version of "The Sound of Music."

The family of dancers led by Geschwister Gundolf made their first appearance in the United States at Pleasanton last Christmas. Millie VonKonsky obtained Gundolf's permission to film the performance, and thus the local group was able to several more authentic Austrian folk dances to its repertoire.

Millie has directed the VonKonsky Dancers for 27 years. The group which also performs folk dances from Hungary, Russia, Poland, Scotland, is sponsored by the City of Oakland. Mrs. VonKonsky will be teaching a folk dance workshop for primary and elementary teachers June 23 to July 3 through California State University at Hayward.

Camera bugs, arise!

The annual photography contest sponsored by the Amador-Livermore Valley Historical Society has been expanded to include duplicates of old prints of historical significance, and extended to a fall deadline to give photographers the summer to take picture.

The new deadline for entries is October 10 in the following categories: 1. Advanced photography by persons beyond high school age; 2. Photography by persons of high school age; and 3. Photography for young people under high school age.

Boundaries for subjects of photography to be entered are Alameda County and the San Ramon Valley. Size of entries must be at least 3-1/2 by 3-1/2 inches.

inside the arts

Local artist bows out

Livermore artist Stephanie Leppelmeier, well-known for her work in serigraphy and her involvement in valley cultural affairs, takes a final bow at a one-artist show in San Francisco this month. Stephanie and her family will move to Rochester, N.Y., in July. Her last show in the Bay Area may be viewed at "The Artist's Wall" at the Liberty House Normandy Lane in San Francisco.

The show, sponsored by Proctor's of Livermore, features the Mendocino seascapes for which Stephanie is best known, as well as the Livermore Valley landscapes that have earned her many awards. Several abstracts, one a magnificent collage of Central American Indian Symbols titled "Cuahtitl," round out the display of the breadth and color range of the silk screen art.

Working from a thorough grounding in classical oil painting, Stephanie studied with Anne Foote at the Mendocino Art Center where she found silk screen printing to be the perfect medium for her talents. Her work, both objective and abstract, reflects a heavy Japanese influence in its introspection and simplicity which capture the essence of the subject, eliminating unnecessary detail.

The creator of original serigraphic seascapes, she was asked to join the prestigious Peninsula Serigraphers Group. Stephanie's most recent awards include two blue ribbons in the Pleasanton Art League's spring show.

A Livermore resident off and on since 1957, she has been an active member of the Livermore Art Association, serving on the scholarship committee and exhibiting in all LAA shows.

Stephanie is also a member of the California Art Teachers Association, having taught drawing and painting classes in Livermore's adult education program for six years.

Stephanie and her husband twice chaired the Livermore Cultural Arts Council event, Sommerfest.

Proctor's gallery will continue to carry her new prints.

Young adults audition for summer musical theater

Auditions are set for the first production of the Livermore Musical Theater, newly-organized by and for young people 18 to 25 years of age under the sponsorship of the Livermore Cultural Arts Council and the LARP.

The musical "Babes in Arms" by Rogers and Hart will be cast Monday and Tuesday, June 23 and 24 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Jackson Avenue School. Young people interested in capturing one of the acting spots, or in joining the orchestra or the backstage crew may contact Director Sue Cupps at 447-5091, or Valerie Doggett at 447-8876.

According to a spokesman for the student group that conceived the idea, it is hoped that a summer theater production for young people of the area will become a permanent community event.

Wunderbar!

Karen Leider of Livermore proves that a savory Old World treat of Bockwurst wrapped in lefse can meet the approval of even the most discriminating Yankee palate. Bockwurst and Polish sausage barbecued over hot coals, sauerkraut, apple strudel, and soft pretzels will be served to the accompaniment of Joe Smiell's Bavarian Band at Sommerfest '75 slated Saturday at The Barn in Livermore. Tickets for admission to festivities from 6 to 11:30 p.m. are available at Valley Bank, Lloyds Bank and United California Bank in Livermore, as well as at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and the office of Marshall Kamena, 1171 Murieta Blvd. Tickets at $2 for adults and $1 for seniors and children will also be sold at the door. The event sponsored by the Livermore cultural Arts Council features the VonKonsky Folk Dancers.

It's real jazz at Chabot

The Legends of Jazz, a group of musicians identified with the early sounds of New Orleans jazz, will open Chabot College's observance of the nation's bicentennial with a program Friday at 8 p.m. at the Chabot College-Community Auditorium in Hayward.

The six-man troupe returns to Chabot with backgrounds that total more than 300 years of jazz activities.

Drummer Barry Martin, the band's English founder, is the youngest of the group at 32 years of age. He has 15 years of jazz production background having studied under Josiah "Cie" Frazier.

Bass player Edward "Motudi" Garland, at 92, is the world's oldest active jazz musician. He played with the early Excelsior Band and Frankie Dore's Eagle Band in 1910. His bass can be heard on the first record ever made featuring authentic New Orleans jazz cut 50 years ago.

Andrew Blakeney, lead trumpet, was selected to replace Louis Armstrong in Joe Oliver's band in 1924. Louis Nelson's parade style trombone was heard in the 1920's with the Original Tuxedo Band and in recent years he has been a fixture at Preservation Hall in New Orleans.

Joe Darenbourg, 67-year-old clarinetist, and Alton Purnell, 62, at the piano, complete the veteran jazz group.

For ticket information contact the college's public information office at 762-3000, Ext. 414

LBO hosts guitarist

A program of classical guitar is on the fine arts calendar Friday, June 27 to be sponsored by the Livermore Bicentennial Organization in conjunction with the Hayward Concert Association.

The concert at the Granada Little Theater, 400 Wall St., features guitarist George Sakellariou who was chosen by Andres Segovia to perform in the Master Class held at the University of California at Berkeley. He is an instructor at the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and the Dominican College of San Rafael, having performed in concert throughout South America and the Western

United States.

Tickets at $3 per person are available in advance at Audio Arts, Blue Door Antiques, Palace Barber Shop, the Livermore Chamber of Commerce and the Livermore recreation center, or through LBO members. For information or tickets contact Hugh Ellsaesser at 447-3834 or Cecilia Larsen at 447-6416.

Acrobatic show

Over 100 gymnastic students of the Carol Jean Dance Studio will perform in an acrobatic-tumbling exhibition tonight at the Livermore High School boys gym.

The students will demonstrate acrobatic equipment with a presentation on the theory and practice of gymnastics at 7:30 p.m. Participants range in age from 3 to 16 years.

There is no charge for the exhibition. For information contact Carol Jean at 447-3535.

STEPHANIE LEPPELMEIER WITH 'AUTUMN TURNING'

SETTING THE SCENE

Bill Hayden

If it helps to jog your memory (mine's usually a basket case), the cast of "THE FOUR MUSKETEERS" includes Oliver Reed as Athos, Raquel Welch as Mme. Bonacieux, Richard Chamberlain as Aramis, Michael York as D'Artagnan, Frank Finlay as Porthos, Faye Dunaway as Milady, Charlton Heston as Cardinal Richelieu and Christopher Lee as Rochefort. You're really in stylish company with this band of players.

In a recent interview Richard Lester said, "I spent $175 on my first movie — a short film with Peter Sellers called 'The Running, Jumping, Standing Still Film'."

"I used Sellers and our wives, family and friends. We cut it at home in the living room. 'Four Musketeers' had a $7,000,000 budget and involved 200 technicians and 15 stars. It's a wonder I'm not a nervous wreck after dealing with all that money and all those talented people."

One of the interesting actors in the cast is Christopher Lee who has been well-known over the past decade for a long series of highly successful Hammer horror films. He has played in infamous Count Dracula six times and has also torn into the scenery with lavish portrayals of Fu Manchu and Dr. Frankenstein's malevolent creature (not to be confused with Peter Boyle's wonderful monster in "Young Frankenstein").

Lee insists he will never return to the Dracula character because he feels the terror of Transylvania is "played out" and there are so many more interesting monsters to play.

The Comte de Rochefort, the actor points out, is based on a real-life French aristocrat and, although there is no documented proof he was Cardinal Richelieu's chief spy, the script of "THE FOUR MUSKETEERS" makes him a superior villain indeed. All young actors want to play the hero. Lee became a star with roles of assorted monsters and creeps. Lee feels he's in good company, however. This type of role was the special province of such greats as Lon Chaney, John Barrymore, Lionel Barrymore, Conrad Veidt, Peter Lorre, Fredric March, Basil Rathbone and Sydney Greenstreet. Even Spencer Tracy played Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Lee says he's happy to be associated with such talent.

Locally, "THE FOUR MUSKETEERS" is playing in Livermore at the Vine with a repeat run of Geo. C. Scott's "THE FLIM-FLAM MAN". Don't let that booking keep you away from those musketeers, however. All their derring-do makes for a fun evening at the movies.

If you liked Richard Lester's version of Dumas' "THE THREE MUSKETEERS", you're going to find yourself enjoying more of the same when you're enticed into a theatre to see Richard Lester's "THE FOUR MUSKETEERS" which is a continuation of all the swashbuckling nonsense we've grown accustomed to in this kind of movie.

There is a difference in this case, however. The normal Hollywood procedure is to make a sequel to a successful movie with the very serious intent of doubling the take. This method has been a spectacular failure in most cases. They were usually labeled "The Son of ——" and ended up disasters at the box-office if not artistic triumphs. "THE FOUR MUSKETEERS" was created at the same time as the original production.

This came about, according to Lester, when he and Producer Alexander Salkind realized there was enough story the first time around for a four or five hour movie. As this was an economic impossibility and they were reluctant not to use the material at hand, they decided to spend a few million more and make a second epic with the same cast on the same locations. For a considerable saving, they opined, they might have two potential hits instead of one.

Good thing, too. And good thinking. In spite of the fact there are some who did not agree "THE THREE MUSKETEERS" was great fun, it was a superior movie and did very well in its original release. "THE FOUR MUSKETEERS" is bound to do as well because the quality of the first production is maintained in the continuation and the same high standards of performance by a quality cast are very much in evidence. You'll find it all more of the same, but different enough not to become dull.

When Dinadan, the worst player and knight of King Arthur's court, cut the peerless Lancelot as his partner, he had one aim in bidding, which was to get to be dummy.

Hence, when Lancelot responded two notrump to his opening club bid, Dinadan forgot he had opened and raised Lancelot right to six.

Vancouver age-15 side coming for the weekend

The Dunbar Stongs, British Columbia's finest 15-year old soccer side, will arrive in Pleasanton this weekend for a four-game East Bay exhibition tour.

It will be the first visit here for the third division club, currently leading its league in Vancouver, B.C.

The Stongs will open their exhibition series Sunday at Pleasanton's Aquatic Park with a 1 p.m. contest against the District Three All-Stars, coached by Ian Lang. The district is comprised of Livermore, Pleasanton, Dublin, Fremont and Newark.

Tuesday, Dunbar will face Dublin United, coached by Bob Wagonhoffer, at 6 p.m. on the Aquatic Center turf.

The Stongs will face a Newark side Thursday, then climax the trip with a match a week from Sunday in Pleasanton against Ballistic United under-16.

This is strictly an exhibition series, stressed Lang, adding that all of his all-stars would receive equal playing time against Dunbar. Lang, by the way, also coaches the Ballistic team which will play on the final Sunday.

The Stongs have an impressive record that includes titles in the Vancouver City Cup, the West Vancouver Invitational Tournament, the British Columbia Provincial Cup, and a vote as the top team in Vancouver's Sun Tournament.

What's more, Steve Nesin, one of the youngest players on the side, has twice been voted the outstanding player in the Provincial Cup Championships. He is the only British Columbian to ever receive that honor twice.

Nesin, Jim Armstrong, Carl Shearer, Warren Pow and Steve Smith are all former all-star players for the Stongs.

The team has won more than 10 tournament titles in the last five years. Lang's all-star side will include four Pleasanton players, Brad Boldrini, Pat Cohan, Steve Englebrecht and Paul Carridan.

Steve Robinson and Kevin Burke from Livermore are also on the roster.

Three Dublin players will see action, Jim Klein, Roger Hurlow and Jim Boulware.

Burke, Klein and Hurlow are also members of the California Youth Soccer Association All-Star team.

Lang's District Three club won all five of its matches in a tournament held to determine the CYSA All-Stars.

It began practicing last night for the Sunday exhibition.

In the Tuesday contest, Dunbar will face Dublin United, the team that finished second in the Western Regional finals for the National Junior Challenge Cup.

Thursday Dunbar plays State Cup champion Newark Ajax.

Dunbar's Pleasanton hosts are still seeking housing for the 14 and 15-year old Vancouver youngsters. Anyone in the vicinity interested in offering accommodations may call 846-2731.

College isn't the only place to continue your education.

You may not join the Army to get a college education, but it may end up that way.

Last year alone, 90,000 young men and women earned college credits while serving in the Army. And the Army paid up to 75% of the tuition.

And now, through the Army's newest educational program, Project Ahead, you can enlist in the Army and start college at the same time.

For more information, see your local Army Representative. You'll find the address in the Yellow Pages under "Recruiting." Or call 800-523-5000 toll free. In Pa., call 800-362-5696.
